Focus

LA PEÑA HUB is an ongoing series of events supporting our community of artists and activists through networking and professional development opportunities. Creative thinkers, critical visionaries, and imaginative social changers gather at the HUB to exchange valuable skills and vital knowledge about access to resources. The HUB also provides a space for assessing the needs essential to intersecting art, culture and social justice in the Bay Area with opportunities to create collaborative projects, productions and coalitions to promote art and action.

Inside La Peña

The Green Room: The backstage area serves as stage wings, dressing room, and performers' lounge. Taj Mahal, Isabel Allende, Los Lobos, Lila Downs, Susana Baca, Angela Davis, Alice Walker, Eduardo Galeano, Inti-Illimani, Flaco Jimenez, Steve Jordan, Junot Diaz, and Jimmy Santiago Baca are just a few of the many luminaries who have graced La Peña's stage, by way of the Green Room, these past 37 years.

Staying fit and ecologically correct

During the day this bike is usually parked in the Green Room. Rain or shine, Executive Director Paul Chin cycles 20 miles round trip daily between his East Oakland home and La Peña. Paul says cycling is good for personal health and the planet's -- a practical way to resist the oil monopolies.
